Do you work with children in a school setting who have a parent in prison?

Are you interested in finding out more about their needs and how to meet them?

If so, you are invited to attend this innovative one day event led by Professor Adele Jones, Director of the Centre for Applied Childhood Studies. The day will include presentations and workshops, where the emerging findings of the COPING project will be discussed and examples of good practice will be shared.

The official title of the COPING project is: Children of Prisoners, Interventions and Mitigations to Strengthen Mental Health. This is a large scale EU funded child-centred project researching the needs of children who have a parent in prison and the services that meet their needs.
